NATURAL SCIENCE MUSEUM

VOLUNTEER TRAINING PROGRAMME

Do you feel the need to do something that will help the future of the nation and other people?
Do you want to contribute to your community in the fields of science education and tourism?
Do you have some qualifications in the fields of conservation, tourism or marketing but cannot find a job and would like to gain extra skills? Or maybe you have some experience in the above fields? Would you like to work in a museum, or are you a student looking for a work placement, or you just have some time to spare? Would you like to try something new to do this year? Then volunteering could just be the opportunity you have been looking for.

As a volunteer you can make an important contribution to the Durban Natural Science Museum, working on different projects. This could be helping in one of our many departments or increasing our visitor's enjoyment and understanding of our collections

The Durban Natural Science Museum will be holding a Volunteer Training Course in mid February 2014. The cost of the Course is R120.00 which is to be paid on the first day of training, and this covers notes and provides membership of the Museum Friends Society for the year.

We are looking for people who have a matric with Life Sciences (or Biology) and / or some qualification or experience in the fields of conservation, travel and tourism, marketing or education.

To be considered for the Course and to enrol you must collect an application form from the Durban Natural Science Museum, 1st Floor, City Hall, Smith Street Entrance.

For further information, contact Busi Gumede/ Sindi Nzama/ Theshnie Naidoo or our information desk by either visiting the Museum or telephoning (031) 311-2256.

CLOSING DATE FOR APPLICATIONS: FRIDAY, 31 JANUARY 2014
